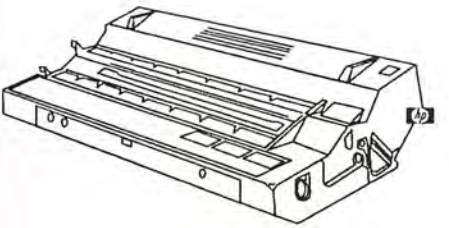
Don't print 'til you see the whites of our I's.

Documents printed using HP LaserJet toner cartridges look good no matter how close you look.



HEWLETT PACKARD

Rich, black toner can make your documents look great. As long as it stays where it belongs–away from places that are supposed to be white. Like margins. The middle of e's and a's. Or the space between the stem and dot of an i.

When you use HP LaserJet toner cartridges you get black blacks and white whites. No compromises. Because everything that goes into the cartridge, from the toner formula to the quality components, is designed to work specifically with your HP LaserJet printer to give you the best print quality possible.

ADMINISTRATION

GLEN TAYLOR

On March 23, 1995, Glen Taylor closed the deal that made him majority owner of the Minnesota Timberwolves. He added the title of NBA franchise owner to a list that already includes international businessman, state senator, entrepreneur, philanthropist and executive of the year. But as he enters his first full season as owner, Taylor is already making a mark on the Minnesota sports scene.

Before completion of the sale, Taylor had installed Rob Moor and Roger Griffith as the team's new president and chief financial officer, respectively, and promoted Minnesota and NBA basketball legend Kevin McHale to assistant general manager. He hired long-time NBA assistant coach Bill Blair as head coach and began to rebuild the Timberwolves team. With the off-season move of McHale to vice-president of basketball operations and the addition of general manager Phil Saunders and director of scouting and player development Jerry Sichting, Taylor has assembled a basketball staff with years of experience in the pro ranks. He has positioned the team to head in a new and successful direction.

Taylor is CEO and Chairman of the Board of Taylor Corporation, located in Mankato, Minn., 75 miles southwest of the Twin Cities. The Taylor companies, which are involved in the printing, marketing, office supply and electronics industries, include more than 70 operating divisions in 12 states, three Canadian provinces, the United Kingdom and Mexico. Their employees number more than 8,000, including more than 5,000 Minnesotans. Taylor also owns Taylor Bancshares, which includes six banks in Minnesota.

Taylor built his company from modest beginnings. While a student at Mankato State University in 1959, he took a part-time job at Carlson Wedding Service. Fifteen years later, in 1974, he acquired a majority interest in the company, laying the foundation for what would soon grow into Taylor Corporation. Taylor Corporation is the nation's largest printer of wedding invitations, controlling more than half that market. Many of the company's products are sold through independent vendors, such as gift and stationery stores.

Taylor's business savvy was recognized by Corporate Report magazine, which honored him as its 1987 Executive of the Year.

Taylor was elected to the Minnesota Senate in 1980, where he served until 1990. He became assistant Senate minority leader in 1982. From 1984 to 1986, he served as Senate minority leader. While in the Senate, Taylor was instrumental in providing leadership in the areas of higher education, child care and economic development policies.

Through personal involvement, Taylor has remained active in many civic and charitable causes. In Mankato, he has served as YMCA President, Chamber of Commerce Director, Mankato Jaycees President and United Way Campaign Chairman. He has also served on his church's board of deacons and board of trustees and on the Mankato State University Foundation board of directors. On the state level, Taylor has served as the director of the Minnesota Business Partnership, director of the Greater Minnesota Corporation and president of the International Thermographers Association. Nationally, Taylor has provided expert testimony on business and child care issues to the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives and served as a committee chair on the 1991 Commission on Reform and Efficiency (CORE).

Taylor, who has ownership of the team with a group of minority investors, promises to bring to the Timberwolves the same ambition and drive that he used to develop the Taylor Corporation. "I will put together the very best organization I can think of, so that the possibility of a very successful team in Minnesota will be there – one that we all can be very proud of. I'm confident that will happen."

Taylor was born on April 20, 1941, and raised on a farm 60 miles west of his current home in Mankato. He graduated from Comfrey (MN) High School in 1959. In just three years, he earned his bachelor's degree from Mankato State University. He later continued his education at the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

Taylor is the father of five children: Terri, Jean, Taylor Moor, Jeff and Kendahl.

ROB MOOR

After spending seven seasons with the National Hockey League's Los Angeles Kings and concluding his stay in the position of executive vice president, Moor moved last year to the NBA and his first season as president of the Timberwolves.

In his role as Timberwolves president, Moor is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the franchise. In addition, last season he played an active role in finalizing the sale of the franchise to Glen Taylor and in Target Center lease negotiations with the city of Minneapolis and Ogden Corporation.

During his stay with the Kings, Moor was instrumental in the development, formation and acquisition of several companies, including the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, Upper Deck Authenticated and MultiVision Marketing and Public Relations.

Moor, 40, began his professional career in the entertainment industry at MGM Studios, starting in the production area and moving to distribution. While at MGM, he was involved in its merger with United Artists and subsequent sale to Ted Turner. Shortly thereafter, Moor joined Twentieth Century Fox Studios, where he specialized in the areas of royalties, licensing and profit participation.

He is a graduate of the University of California at Irvine. Moor and his wife, Taylor, were wed in Scotland and currently reside in Wayzata, MN.

KEVIN McHALE

It doesn't take Kevin McHale long to excel at his job. In high school, he led Hibbing to the Minnesota Class AA State Basketball Tournament title game; in college, he earned first-team All-Big Ten honors in 1980, playing for the University of Minnesota basketball team; and in the pro ranks, he joined the Boston Celtics for three NBA championships, the first coming in his rookie season with the team.

McHale continues that tradition of quick successes with the Timberwolves, moving from special assistant coach in 1993-94 to assistant general manager last season to his latest endeavor as vice president of basketball operations.

On May 11, team owner Glen Taylor named McHale vice president of basketball operations, and he is the first person in the club's six-year history to hold that title. McHale, 37, will direct the franchise's entire basketball operations department – overseeing player personnel decisions, scouting and the coaching staff. He succeeds Jack McCloskey who performed those duties as general manager before retiring at the end of the 1994-95 season.

In McHale's first season with the Wolves, 1993-94, he served as a special assistant to the coaching staff. That position utilized the experience of his lengthy basketball career, which culminated in the retiring of his pro, college and high-school game jerseys. In August, McCloskey created the position of assistant GM and put McHale in place.

With the demands of his new position, McHale will relinquish his broadcasting duties with the Timberwolves. For the past two seasons, fans have enjoyed the insight and wit he brought to his broadcast analysis on the Timberwolves television network. His unique style and perspective, combined with the talents of Kevin Harlan and Tom Hanneman, made for one of the top local broadcasts in the NBA.

Prior to coming to the Timberwolves organization, the future hall-of-famer played 13 seasons for the Celtics before retiring in the spring of 1993. A first-round selection (third overall) by Boston in the 1980 NBA Draft, McHale helped lead the Celtics to three NBA championships (1981, 1984 and 1986), five Eastern Conference titles and eight Atlantic Division crowns. He was voted the NBA's top sixth man twice (1984 and 1985) and was selected to the All-NBA First Team in 1987. He was also named to the NBA All-Defensive First Team three times (1986, 1987 and 1988). The 6 ft.-10 in. forward/center averaged 17.9 points and 7.3 rebounds in 971 regular-season career games. He shot an impressive 55.4 percent from the floor and 79.8 percent at the free-throw line. In 169 postseason contests, McHale upped his averages to 18.8 points and 7.4 rebounds.

A native of Hibbing, MN, Kevin Edward McHale was born on Dec. 19, 1957. He first made a name for himself playing basketball for Hibbing High School. He went on to star at the University of Minnesota for four years (1976-80) where he posted a career average of 15.2 points and 8.5 rebounds per game. On Feb. 18, he was honored as the top player in U of M men's basketball history, as the school celebrated its 100th anniversary in the sport.

Kevin and his wife, Lynn, along with their five children, Kristyn, Michael, Joseph, Alexandra and Thomas, reside in North Oaks, MN.

PHIL "FLIP" SAUNDERS

GENERAL MANAGER

Phil Saunders' road to the NBA has been lined with many success stories. Now that he's with the Timberwolves, he hopes for that trend to continue. On May 11, Saunders was named general manager of the Timberwolves.

Saunders, 40, joins the Timberwolves after seven productive seasons as a head coach in the Continental Basketball Association (CBA) where he ranks second all-time with 253 victories. He began his CBA career in 1988-89 with the Rapid City (SD) Thrillers, then moved on to the La Crosse (WI) Catbirds for five seasons (1989-94) before coaching last season with the Sioux Falls (SD) Skyforce. He also served as general manager (1991-93) and team president (1991-94) of the Catbirds.

The Timberwolves hope Saunders' ability to turn around the fortunes of a franchise has followed him to Minnesota. In each of his three stops in the CBA he took a club with a losing record prior to his arrival and produced a winning record the next season.

Saunders' impressive coaching resume includes seven consecutive seasons of 30-or-more victories, two CBA championships (1990, 1992), two CBA Coach of the Year honors (1989, 1992) and a record 23 CBA-to-NBA player promotions.

Saunders began his successful coaching career at Golden Valley Lutheran College where he compiled a 92-13 record, including a perfect 56-0 mark at home, in four seasons. In 1982, he joined the coaching staff at his alma mater – the University of Minnesota – as an assistant and helped coach the Golden Gophers to the Big Ten championship that season. After five seasons at Minnesota, he moved to an assistant coach position at the University of Tulsa where he worked for two seasons before heading to the pro ranks.

Saunders was an All-America basketball player at Cuyahoga Heights High School in Cleveland. In his senior season, 1973, he was named Ohio's Class A High School Basketball Player of the Year, posting a state-high average of 32.0 points per game. He continued his basketball career at Minnesota where he started 101 of his 103 career contests. As a senior, Saunders teamed with Kevin McHale, the Timberwolves' vice president of basketball operations, to lead the Gophers to an all-time school-best 24-3 record.

Philip D. Saunders was born Feb. 23, 1955, in Cleveland, Ohio. Phil and his wife, Debbie, have four children: Ryan, Mindy and twins, Rachel and Kimberly.

JERRY SICHTING

DIRECTOR OF SCOUTING AND PLAYER DEVELOPMENT

On May 11, Jerry Sichting was named director of scouting and player development for the Minnesota Timberwolves. Known during his NBA playing career as a hard-nosed, tenacious competitor, Sichting brings those same qualities of dedication with him to his first NBA front-office position.

Sichting, 38, spent the past four seasons as the analyst on Boston Celtics radio broadcasts. His broadcast resume also includes fill-in roles on radio and television with the Indiana Pacers during the 1990-91 season, commentating on various high-school broadcasts throughout Indiana, and a pregame show for his alma mater – Purdue University — on WTTV-TV.

In addition to the valuable insight he gained during the past four seasons of watching and commentating on NBA games, Sichting also acquired an in-depth knowledge of pro basketball from his 10 seasons as a player in the NBA. He began his pro career in 1980, spending the first five seasons with the Pacers, averaging a career-high 11.5 points per game during the 1983-84 season.

In 1985, Sichting signed with the Celtics as a free agent and became an integral reserve. In 1986, he teamed with Timberwolves Vice President of Basketball Operations Kevin McHale to lead the Celtics to the World Championship. Midway through the 1987-88 campaign, he was traded to the Portland Trail Blazers. He finished his playing career in 1989-90 as a member of the Charlotte Hornets and Milwaukee Bucks.

Sichting appeared in 598 career regular-season games where he recorded an average of 6.9 points and 3.3 assists per game. He saw action in 47 playoff contests posting averages of 3.0 points and 1.7 assists per outing.

Jerry Lee Sichting was born Nov. 29, 1956, in Martinsville, Ind. Jerry and his wife, Joni, have four children: Jared, Jason, Jordan and Jenna.

ROB BABCOCK

DIRECTOR OF PLAYER PERSONNEL

Rob Babcock enters his second season as the Timberwolves' director of player personnel. He was promoted to that position prior to the start of last season after spending the previous two years as a full-time scout with the organization.

Babcock spent five seasons as the Denver Nuggets' director of scouting before joining the Timberwolves for the 1992-93 season. He has also held part-time scouting positions with the Detroit Pistons, Cleveland Cavaliers, San Diego Clippers and Indiana Pacers.

Prior to working for the Nuggets, Babcock was the head basketball coach at Phoenix (AZ) College, where his teams advanced to the ACCAC playoffs twice and were the regional runners-up in 1986.

A native of Phoenix, Babcock earned high-school All-America basketball honors in his senior season. He attended Grand Canyon College in Phoenix and helped his team to a second-place finish in the 1974 NAIA championships.

Following his graduation from Grand Canyon, Babcock began his coaching career in Mexico City at The American School Foundation. From Mexico City, he returned to Phoenix where he coached at Greenway and Maryvale high schools. In 1982, he earned Southwest Valley Coach of the Year honors.

Rob's brother, Pete, is vice president/general manager of the Atlanta Hawks. Rob and his wife, Laura, have two sons: Nathan and Christopher.

STAN NOVAK Scout

With more than 41 years of professional basketball experience, Stan Novak is a valuable asset to the Timberwolves. He has worked as a Timberwolves scout for the past three seasons. Novak's knowledge of basketball, along with his keen ability to assess talent, is tapped to help acquire the top talent available. His job duties of scouting basketball games and evaluating pro prospects keep him on the road much of the season, traveling the world for future Timberwolves players.

Novak came to Minnesota after spending 12 seasons as the scouting director with the Detroit Pistons. He was a key contributor in the draft selections of Joe Dumars, John Salley and Dennis Rodman, players who helped the Pistons win back-to-back NBA championships.

Prior to joining the Pistons, Novak's background included 31 years as a player and coach in the Continental and Eastern Basketball Leagues. He began his career as a player-coach in Sudbury, PA, in 1949, where his teammates included former Wolves general manager Jack McCloskey and legendary NBA coach Jack Ramsay. He also coached teams in Trenton, NJ, and the Pennsylvania cities of Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Allentown and Lancaster. He was honored as coach of the year in 1977.

During his first 18 years coaching in the Eastern League, Novak also coached Springfield Township High School in Montgomery County, PA, where he posted an .850 winning percentage.

A native of Philadelphia, Novak graduated from West Philadelphia High School and the University of Pennsylvania. He captained the 1948 Penn basketball team. Novak and his wife, Carolyn, reside in Philadelphia and have two children, Edward and Susan, living in that area.

BORIS KAREBIN International Scout

Boris Karebin is in his second season as international scout for the Timberwolves. His duties include scouting international tournaments and championships, as well as keeping up-to-date on all international players. Karebin discovered Andres Guibert, who became the first Cuban-born player to participate in an NBA game when he saw game action with the Timberwolves in the 1993-94 season.

Karebin, 40, possesses extensive European coaching experience. He began his career with Korabel in Nikolaev, Ukraine in 1983. He took over a team that consistently ranked near the bottom of the division and led them to a first-place tie in Division I in the 1984-85 USSR championships. He also served as director of player personnel/assistant coach for Budivelnik in Kiev, Ukraine from 1987-90. Budivelnik claimed its first USSR national championship in 1989 when Alexander Volkov, who later went on to play for the Atlanta Hawks, hit a half-court shot at the buzzer to win the game. From 1987-90, Karebin served as head coach of the Ukrainian National team.

Karebin earned a coaching degree from Kharkov Technical College and Moscow Institute of Physical Culture. Boris and his wife, Natasha, have one son, David.

BILL BLAIR

Bill Blair returns for his second season at the helm of the Timberwolves. After 13 seasons as an assistant coach in the NBA, Blair assumed control of his own club when he was named head coach of the Timberwolves on August 29, 1994.

Blair, 53, came to the Timberwolves following a successful 1993-94 season with the Indiana Pacers. As an assistant to Larry Brown, Blair helped the Pacers to a 47-35 regular-season mark and a playoff run that took the club all the way to the seventh game of the Eastern Conference Finals. Known as a defensive specialist, Blair was instrumental in Indiana decreasing its points allowed per game from 106.1 in 1992-93 to 97.5 in 1993-94.

Blair's NBA coaching resume also includes assistant stints in Washington, Chicago and New Jersey, and an assistant coach/scout position with the Pacers. He served under Kevin Loughery and Wes Unseld on Washington's staff from 1986-92. Prior to joining the Bullets, Blair spent one season (1985-86) with the Pacers. He worked two seasons on the bench with Loughery in Chicago (1983-85), where he helped the Bulls to their first winning season in five years, and two campaigns in New Jersey (1981-83), where he was part of Larry Brown's 1981-82 staff that helped the Nets make a then NBA record 20-game turnaround.

Prior to starting his NBA career in 1981, Blair was a head coach at the collegiate level at his alma mater Virginia Military Institute and the University of Colorado. He spent four seasons (1972-76) at the helm of VMI, leading his 1975-76 team to a 22-10 record – the school's first winning record in 32 years – and to the Elite Eight in the NCAA tournament. At Colorado, Blair recorded a 67-69 (.493) mark in five seasons (1976-81). He directed the Buffaloes to three straight winning seasons from 1978-81.

ASSISTANT COACHES

MIKE SCHULER

Mike Schuler returns for his second season as an assistant on Bill Blair's coaching staff. A longtime veteran of the NBA coaching ranks, the 54-year-old Ohio native enters his 15th season in the league. He came to the Timberwolves after spending the 1993-94 season as an assistant with the Sacramento Kings.

Schuler finds himself on the bench next to Blair for the third time in his coaching career. Schuler and Blair shared the sidelines for the first time in 1969 when Schuler hired Blair to be his assistant at Virginia Military Institute (VMI). After serving together for three seasons at VMI, the duo reunited for two seasons (1981-83) with the New Jersey Nets where both served as assistants under Larry Brown.

Schuler brings more than 33 years of coaching experience to the Timberwolves, splitting his 14 seasons in the NBA between assistant and head coaching positions. He began his NBA career with New Jersey in 1981. From there he moved to Milwaukee, where he spent three campaigns working on Don Nelson's staff.

In 1986, Schuler accepted his first NBA head coaching assignment with the Portland Trail Blazers. In his first season, he improved the Blazers from a 40-42 mark the previous season to a 49-33 record and a second-place finish in the Pacific Division. He was a consensus selection for NBA Coach of the Year honors, leading Portland to a league-high scoring average of 117.9 points per game. The following season, he guided the Blazers to a 53-29 record and another second-place finish in the Pacific Division.

After one season (1989-90) at Golden State, Schuler was named head coach of the Los Angeles Clippers in the summer of 1990, where he stayed until February 1992. During his five-year NBA head coaching career, Schuler has compiled a 179-159 (.530) record.

A 1962 graduate of Ohio University, Schuler spent three years as a high-school coach before joining Bobby Knight's staff at Army in 1965. In 1966, he returned to his collegiate alma mater where he served as an assistant for three seasons. He was named head coach at VMI in 1969, remaining there until 1972 when he joined the coaching staff at Virginia. Wittman, 36, came to Minnesota from the Dallas Mavericks where he spent the 1993-94 season as an assistant coach under Quinn Buckner. Prior to joining the Mavs, he served one season (1992-93) on Bob Hill's staff with the Indiana Pacers.

A 1983 graduate of Indiana University, Wittman played nine seasons in the NBA. He was a first-round draft choice of the Washington Bullets, but was dealt by them to the Atlanta Hawks prior to the start of the 1983-84 season. During his nine-year NBA playing career, Wittman saw action with the Hawks, Sacramento Kings and Indiana Pacers. He averaged 7.4 points per game, shooting 50.1 percent from the floor in 543 career games.

A two-time academic All-America at Indiana, Wittman was a member of the Hoosiers' 1981 NCAA championship team and was named co-player of the year in the Big Ten as a senior in 1983.

The fourth overall pick in the 1977 NBA Draft, Ballard played eight seasons with the Washington Bullets, including his rookie season on their 1978 NBA championship squad. He was traded to Golden State in June 1985, and played two seasons with the Warriors before heading to Italy where he played for a year-and-a-half. Chris Wright has been part of the Timberwolves organization for five of its six seasons. He spent three years as vice president of marketing before his promotion a year-and-a-half ago to vice president of sales and marketing. As sales and marketing VP, his duties include overseeing all aspects of ticket sales (including season- and group-ticket sales), publication sales, suite sales and marketing, corporate sales, corporate services, community basketball programs and the Timberwolves pre-season exhibition game schedule. Wright has seen consistent renewals in season-ticket sales and substantial increases in group-ticket sales, during his stint as marketing VP. A consolidation of the organization's sales departments a year-and-a-half ago resulted in the expansion of Wright's duties, which now also include overseeing all facets of corporate sales and services, promotions and game presentation.

A native of England, Wright came to the United States in 1978. Prior to working with the Wolves, he spent three years working for the state of Minnesota, first as a consultant working on bids for major national and international events, including the programming for the $17.4 million National Sports Center in Blaine. Prior to that, Wright also served as general manager for two Major Indoor Soccer League teams, the Pittsburgh Spirit (1981-86) and the Minnesota Strikers (1986-87).

Wright, who graduated from Carnegie College of Physical Education in Headingly Leeds, Yorkshire, England, is very involved with Minneapolis Children's Medical Center. He resides in Eden Prairie, MN, with his wife, Walla, their sons Jeff and Ned, and their daughter Christy.

TARGET CENTER

On October 16, 1990, Target Center arena opened in the heart of Minneapolis' downtown entertainment district. The Timberwolves played the Philadelphia 76ers in an exhibition game that evening, and the thousands of basketball fans that had watched the team play its first season across town in the Metrodome, jammed the new state-of-the art Target Center to its rafters. The basketball fans have been filling it ever since.

The Target Center building is easy to find, located on the western edge of the downtown business district and just steps from the exciting Minneapolis nightlife. Each night, the Target Center can hold up to 19,006 Timberwolves fans, who can choose from numerous patron services and amenities to make an evening with the Wolves even more enjoyable. From the Target Center doors, you are a minute's walk by sidewalk or skyway, to restaurants, night clubs, shopping areas or your downtown hotel.

Timberwolves games in Target Center take place in one of the world's most unique settings. The facility features excellent sightlines, more than 10,000 parking spaces for events located in garages across the street, a 12-ft. by 16-ft. video replay board and the highest restroom-to-patron ratio in the industry, plus a world-class health club and a full-service restaurant. The building also offers handicapped accessibility, comfortable, theater-style seats and complete access through the skyway system parking ramps.

MINNESOTA TIMBERWOLVES REVIEW 1994-95

1994-95 MINNESOTA TIMBERWOLVES

NOVEMBER (1-13): The Timberwolves struggled from the outset as they opened the season with six losses – a franchise record. The Wolves also tied a club mark with 16 consecutive losses, dating back to the last ten games of 1993-94. They finally broke both streaks with a 114-112 win at Golden State on Nov. 15. In that game, Isaiah Rider scored a career-high 35 points. Sean Rooks, acquired from Dallas shortly before the season opener, chipped in 20 points and 10 rebounds. Minnesota ended the month with a seven-game losing streak. Rider led the Wolves in scoring and assists with 18.6 ppg and 3.6 apg, respectively, while Christian Laettner added 14.4 ppg and a team-high 7.1 rpg. Doug West, who was sidelined for four games with a groin injury, averaged 14.3 ppg.

DECEMBER (5-7, 6-20): The Wolves rebounded from a poor November to post their best-ever December winning percentage. Minnesota started the month with back-to-back wins on the road against Utah (96-94 on Dec. 1) and the L.A. Clippers (103-95 on Dec. 3). The victory over the Jazz was Minnesota's first-ever in Utah. The Timberwolves snapped a 14-game home losing streak (dating to April 1994) when they beat New Jersey, 94-93, on Dec. 16. In that game, Isaiah Rider converted a three-point play with two seconds remaining to pull out the win. The following night, Minnesota defeated Washington on the road, 96-87, behind Doug West's 25 points. For the month, Rider led the Wolves in scoring with 22.1 ppg, while West added 16.9 ppg and Christian Laettner averaged a team-leading 7.9 rpg. Newly-acquired point guard Winston Garland handed out an average of 7.3 apg.

MINNESOTA TIMBERWOLVES REVIEW 1994-95

JANUARY (4-12, 10-32): The new year started on a rough note, as the Timberwolves dropped their first six January outings. The streak was snapped on Friday the 13th, when Minnesota cruised past Detroit, 104-92, at Target Center. The win also ended a string of 17 straight games in which the Wolves had failed to score 100 points. Three nights later, Minnesota made it back-to-back home wins by stunning Houston, 94-75. Isaiah Rider led the Wolves with 24 points and Doug West pulled down a career-high 11 rebounds as Minnesota held the defending World Champs to just 28 second-half points. The Wolves pulled off another shocker when they defeated Charlotte, 100-83, on Jan. 22 at Target Center. Minnesota recorded its lone road win of the month on Jan. 27 at Dallas, downing the Mavs 102-94. For the month, Rider led the Wolves in scoring at 21.8 ppg, while Christian Laettner averaged 7.6 rpg and Winston Garland added 4.7 apg.

FEBRUARY (4-9, 14-41): Minnesota halted a five-game losing streak by beating Golden State, 109-100, on Feb. 7 at Target Center. Isaiah Rider hit for a career-high 41 points and added eight rebounds and nine assists in the Wolves' only TNT appearance of the season. Minnesota avenged a 38-point November home loss to Philadelphia by beating the Sixers 101-97 on Feb. 15, behind Doug West's season-high 33 points. The season's most impressive win was a 100-95 upset of Orlando in front of a Target Center-record 19,934 fans on Feb. 19. Tom Gugliotta, acquired from Golden State for Donyell Marshall on Feb. 18, had an immediate impact on the Wolves' fortunes. Minnesota went 7-9 in the first month following the swap. Rider was once again Minnesota's top scorer in February, averaging 22.9 ppg. Christian Laettner led the Wolves in rebounding (7.8 rpg) and Winston Garland was tops in assists (5.6 apg).

MARCH (5-11, 19-52): The Wolves got off to a quick start in March, posting consecutive wins at Sacramento (98-87 on Mar. 1) and vs. Houston (108-105 on Mar. 3). Minnesota's five-victory total for the month equaled the best March in club history. Three of those five wins came against playoff-bound foes, including a 109-103 triumph over the L.A. Lakers on Mar. 10 that gave the Wolves their fourth win in their last five Target Center appearances. In that game, Isaiah Rider returned from a four-game absence to score 33 points. Minnesota also knocked off Cleveland at home, 80-77 on Mar. 17, behind 22 points, 12 rebounds and five assists from Christian Laettner. Two nights later, the Wolves downed the L.A. Clippers 96-93, as Laettner grabbed a season-high 16 rebounds. For the month, Laettner averaged a team-leading 18.1 ppg and 7.9 rpg. Tom Gugliotta, in his first full month with the Wolves, tallied 15.0 ppg, 6.8 rpg and a team-best 4.9 apg.

APRIL (2-9, 21-61): After registering a 126-104 win at Golden State on Apr. 1, the Timberwolves managed just one win in their final ten games to close the year with their fourth straight 60-loss campaign. Isaiah Rider once again proved to be a Golden State nemesis, as he poured in a career-high 42 points in that Apr. 1 meeting. The win enabled Minnesota to tie its club record for most road victories in a season with eight. The Wolves' final victory came against Milwaukee, 104-100 in overtime on Apr. 14, allowing Minnesota to snap its NBA-record-tying drought of ten consecutive overtime losses. Christian Laettner led the Wolves with 25 points and 11 rebounds, and Rider and Tom Gugliotta pitched in 23 points apiece. For the month, Rider led the Wolves with 21.3 ppg, while Gugliotta was the top rebounder at 8.0 rpg and Darrick Martin dished out 4.3 apg. Laettner continued his strong second-half play by averaging 18.7 ppg (on .583 shooting from the field) and 7.0 rpg.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

A total of 16 teams qualify for the NBA playoffs: the four division winners and the next six teams in each conference according to their won-lost record -- regardless of division. The first round is best-of-five games and each succeeding round, including the NBA Finals, is best-of-seven games.

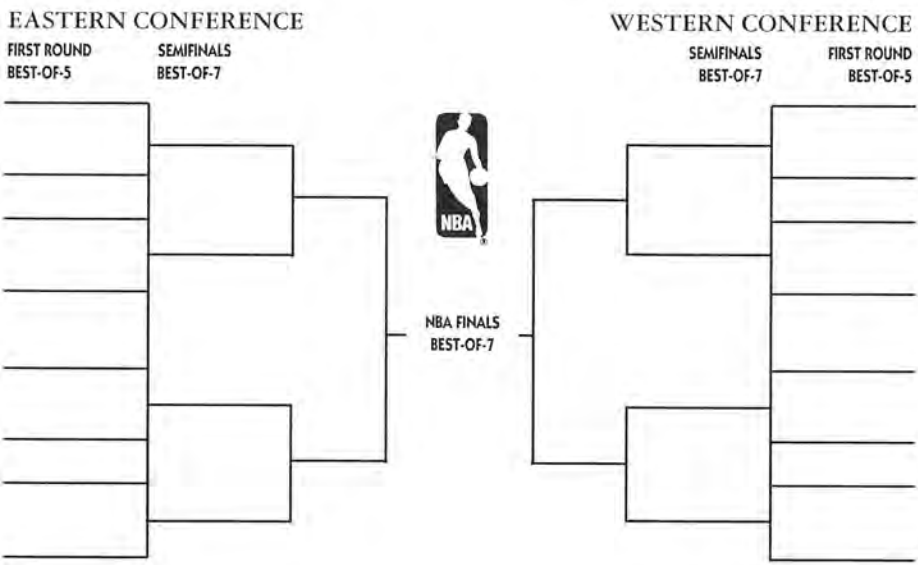
In every series, the home-court advantage in the extra game goes to the team with the better record during the regular season, regardless of its standing in the division race. Thus, if a division winner plays a second-place team from another division that had a better record, the second-place team would get home-court advantage.

In determining the playoff matches, the eight qualifiers are ranked Teams 3 through 8 according to their records. The playoff pairings for the First Round are teams 1-8, 2-7, 3-6, and 4-5 in each conference. In the conference semifinals, the winner of teams 1-8 plays the winner of teams 4-5 and the winner of teams 2-7 plays the winner of teams 3-6.

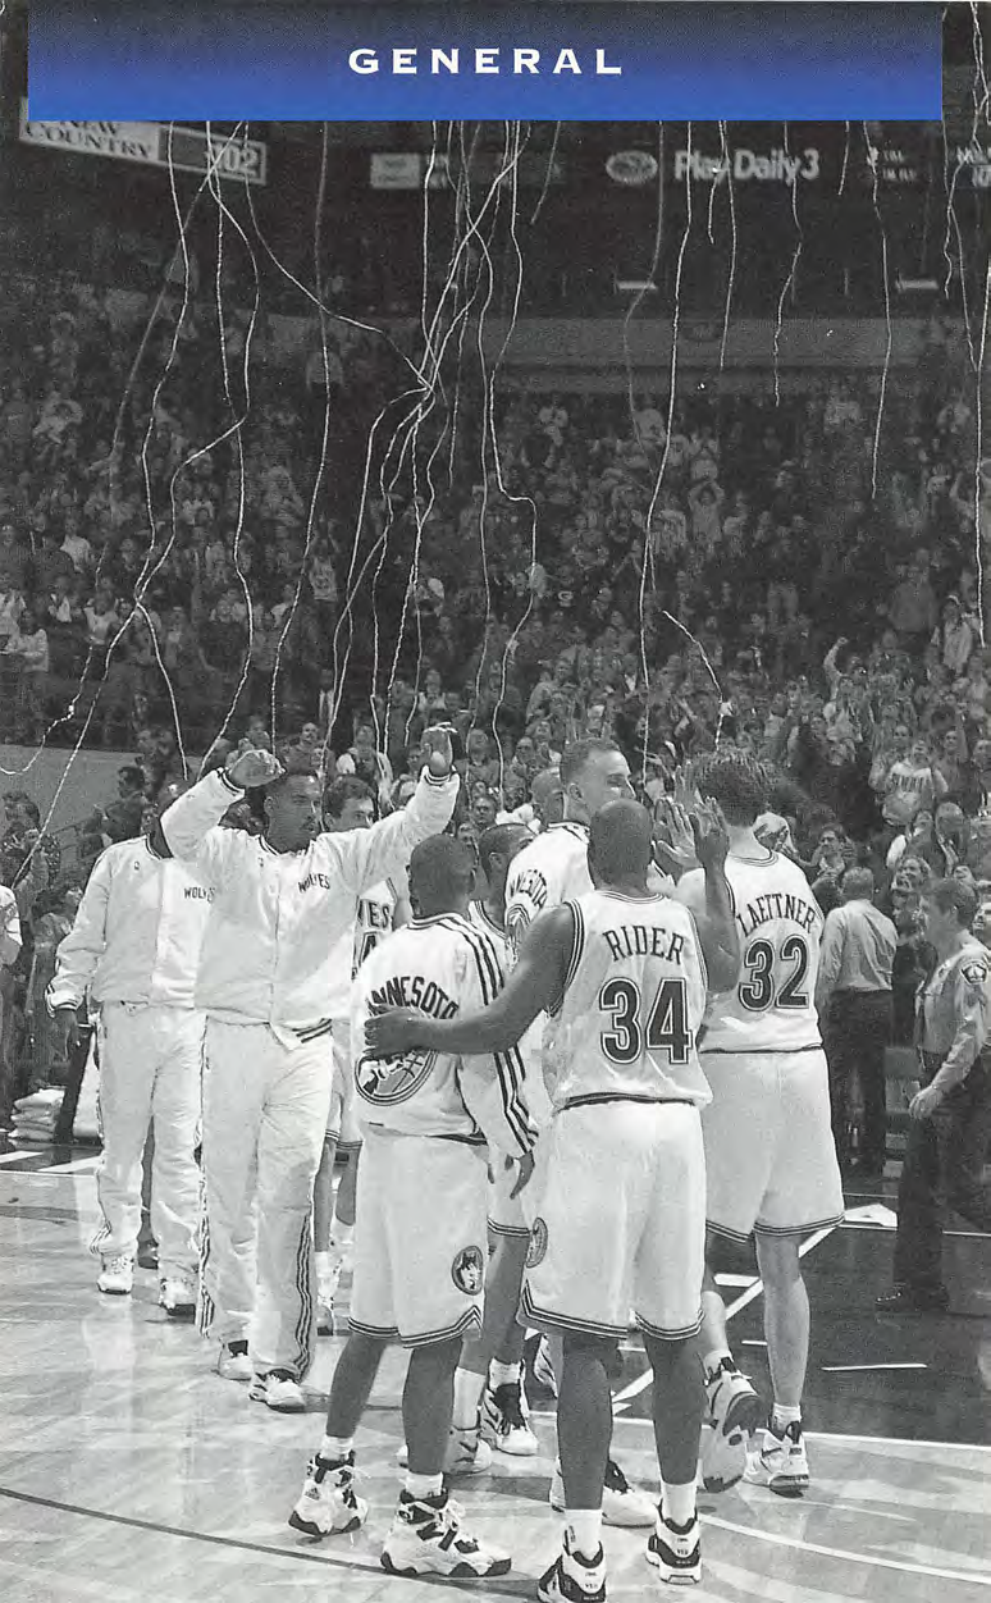
The NBA Finals will be played on a 2-3-2 basis, the team with the better regular-season record getting the home-court advantage for the first and last two games. Other best-of-seven series are 2-2-1-1-1.

Some portions of the playoff format were revised in June, 1983. A vote by the NBA Board of Governors made the revisions effective in the 1984 playoffs. The major revisions included allowing 16 teams to qualify for the playoffs and changing the first-round best-of-three series to a best-of-five series.

NOTE: Team 1 in each conference is the division winner with the best record. Team 2 is the other division winner and Teams 3-8 are ranked according to their regular-season winning percentage.



GENERAL



COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

The Minnesota Timberwolves Community Foundation wants to positively impact the lives of the youth in our Minnesota communities, enable them to make responsible decisions and help them to contribute to their own future.

In the past year, the Foundation has increased its involvement in the Twin Cities and throughout greater Minnesota, sponsoring events such as the Give-and-Go Basketball Leagues and developing a stronger Stay-in-School program with Minneapolis and St. Paul schools.

TASTE OF THE TIMBERWOLVES

The Minnesota Timberwolves hosted their first annual "Taste of the Timberwolves" on October 29, 1995. This event was a fun-filled and memorable fundraising campaign for our foundation. Our goal was to raise $100,000 for various charities and programs that target youth.

GIVE-AND-GO BASKETBALL LEAGUES

During the past summer, the Minnesota Timberwolves sponsored and supported the Twin Cities Give-and-Go Basketball Leagues. These leagues took place Monday through Thursday at four sites in the Twin Cities. There were four divisions: the Men's Pro-Am elite division, men and women college divisions and the Night Howl division, created for all skill levels. Skill clinics were conducted at each site of Night Howl and Men's Pro-Am games.

HOSPITAL VISITS

During the holiday season, the players, coaches, front-office staff, and Crunch visit several area children's hospitals in Minneapolis and St. Paul, spreading cheer and bringing smiles to many needy children.

COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

HOLIDAY PARTY

In an effort to brighten the lives of many who are less fortunate, the Timberwolves staff and players sponsor a holiday party for children in the Twin Cities area. Kids and their parents are invited to Target Center, where they have a chance to meet some of the players and coaches. Food and gifts are provided to the children.

TICKETS FOR KIDS

The Minnesota Timberwolves donate more than 50,000 tickets per season to non-profit agencies, schools and shelters. Season-ticket holders also donate unused tickets to this program for distribution. This program allows individuals who normally would not have an opportunity to see an NBA basketball game the chance to visit Target Center.

SPEAKERS BUREAU

Members of the Timberwolves organization are available to speak at various functions, to community groups or before charitable organizations. Our main topics of discussion include, but are not limited to, the team, personnel and the NBA in general.

A.C.E.S.

Athletes Committed to Educating Students is a program based upon a partnership between professional sports and the community, in support of educational programs for children. The students involved are taught basic cognitive skills from "Page Scholars" (tutors working in conjunction with the Alan Page Foundation). The students are tracked from fourth grade through high school. The program was featured nationally on "NBA Inside Stuff" last seaon.

BLUE CROSS YOUTH FITNESS CHALLENGE

This program was established to increase awareness of the importance of physical activity for children and their families throughout their lifetime. Called "Fitness Fever," this health and fitness program was designed for elementary school children throughout the state of Minnesota, reaching 400,000 kids in 1,100 schools. Rather than compare kids to high-level standards of achievements, this program supports personal goals and encourages kids to do their best. The Timberwolves make player appearances and lend their overall support to the program. The campaign is a collaboration between the Timberwolves, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Minnesota, the Minnesota Department of Health and Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning.

NBA PUBLIC SERVICE PROGRAMS

The NBA, its teams and players share a commitment to supporting and improving the quality of life in their communities. On a national level, the NBA is involved in numerous public service initiatives.

Since 1989, the NBA and the National Basketball Players Association have worked to draw attention to this country's alarming drop-out statistics through the national NBA Stay-in-School program. Created to urge students to graduate from high school, the Stay-in-School program uses the popularity and visibility of NBA players and coaches to encourage young people to develop self-esteem, set goals and dedicate themselves to learning.

Through public service announcements on TV, radio and other awareness-building projects, the NBA and its players also support the work of the Special Olympics, CARE, the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse. The NBA also produces and airs public service announcements saluting the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., celebrating Black History Month each February.

KEVIN HARLAN Play-By-Play Announcer

Kevin Harlan returns for another season behind the microphone as the voice of the Timberwolves. Entering his seventh season in Minnesota, Harlan has become one of the most recognizable voices in sports broadcasting, and his high-energy play-by-play style has been a Timberwolves trademark since the team's inception.

Harlan also calls a full schedule of NFL football games each fall, working his second season with the Fox televison network as a play-by-play broadcaster. In addition, he calls the action for college football and basketball and championship boxing for the Mutual Broadcasting System. National broadcasts are nothing new to Harlan, who has worked with NBC and ESPN. His reputation, experience and national network presence continues to grow and is part of every Wolves broadcast.

In addition to providing radio play-by-play for the Wolves, Harlan, 35, will also call the action for all 25 televised games on the Timberwolves television network.

Harlan has been on a fast track to success since graduating from the University of Kansas in 1982. At the age of 22, he landed his first job as the radio and television voice of the Kansas City Kings, a job he held for two years until the team moved to Sacramento. The versatile Harlan spent nine seasons as the voice of the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs and also called game action for ESPN on the collegiate football level last fall. Prior to that, Harlan called play-by-play for both football and basketball at the University of Kansas and the University of Missouri.

Harlan has also done play-by-play on NFL national telecasts for NBC Sports and covered the NBA's conference finals for the NBA radio network.

Born in Milwaukee, Harlan is the son of Green Bay Packers President Bob Harlan. His brother, Bryan, is the public relations director for the Chicago Bears.

Harlan and his wife, Ann, reside in Mission Hills, KS, with their three daughters, Abigail, Haley and Olivia.

TOM HANNEMAN Broadcast Studio Anchor

One of the most versatile and familiar voices in Minnesota sports broadcasting, Tom Hanneman begins his seventh season as studio anchor of the Timberwolves Radio Network and the Timberwolves television network.

Recognized for his smooth and mellifluous delivery, Hanneman is the only person in Timberwolves history to take part in every broadcast since the team's inception. Hanneman's talents have also received nationwide exposure. He's worked four seasons as the studio host of NBA Radio, anchoring a 140-station network that features the All-Star Weekend, the NBA Game of the Week and expanded NBA playoff and draft coverage. In addition, Hanneman's NBA Radio work took him to Toronto to host the World Championship of Basketball for the network, and he hosted a weekly radio show for BBC in London that was broadcast in Australia and New Zealand.

Hanneman was not unfamiliar to Minnesota sports fans when he joined the Timberwolves broadcast team in 1989. For the previous 16 years he was seen by Twin Citians as a news and sports reporter on WCCO-TV. Along with his NBA Radio visibility, Hanneman has also made an impression on the national scene with his coverage of the 1984 Winter Olympics in Sarajevo for CBS-TV, as well as his work for ESPN with marathoner Frank Shorter, covering the men's and women's U.S. Olympic team trials at the Twin Cities Marathon in 1987. A personable and entertaining style, with a healthy dose of wit, has been a long-time Hanneman trademark.

Born in La Crosse, WI, Tom makes his home in Eden Prairie, MN, along with his wife, Nancy, and their children, Adam, Courtney and Kyle.

CHAD HARTMAN Play-By-Play Announcer

Chad Hartman enters his fifth season of broadcasting Minnesota Timberwolves games. As play-by-play announcer on Midwest Sports Channel (MSC), Hartman delivers a succinct and well-informed narrative of the action on the floor. But these duties remain only a part of his ever-expanding broadcasting resume.

Hartman will provide play-by-play for the 25 Timberwolves games shown on the cable network. He also fills in on Timberwolves radio broadcasts when regular play-by-play announcer Kevin Harlan moves to the television broadcasts on the Timberwolves television network.

In addition to his basketball duties, Hartman has provided play-by-play for Minnesota Twins baseball games and Minnesota Gopher football games broadcast on MSC.

Hartman, who graduated from Arizona State University in 1988, spent two seasons announcing play-by-play in the Continental Basketball Association, one year each with the La Crosse Catbirds and the Rochester Flyers. He has also spent one season as the play-by-play voice of the Minnesota Twins Class AA baseball club, the Orlando Twins. Along with Twin Cities Star Tribune columnist Dan Barreiro, Hartman hosts a popular afternoon drive-time call-in radio show on KFAN.

Hartman, 30, his wife, Kathleen, and their son, Hunter, reside in Plymouth, MN.

TRENT TUCKER Broadcast Analyst

The tradition continues in the broadcast booth for Minnesota Timberwolves games as former University of Minnesota guard Trent Tucker replaces former Gopher forward Kevin McHale as the Timberwolves television broadcast analyst. Tucker, a four-year letter winner on the U's basketball team, also brings 11 seasons of NBA experience to the microphone, which includes one championship season with the Chicago Bulls in 1992-93.

Tucker's broadcast resume includes working as the analyst for Gopher games on MSC, the NBA expert for SPTV's basketball coverage and radio work as co-host of KFAN's Sunday morning sports program called "In the Zone."

Tucker is single and currently resides in Minneapolis.
